HERRICK'S LOST OPPORTUNITY

As a matter of history it is well to remember that when Dick was taken out of the house and sent to the senate to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Senator Hanna, six years ago, Myron T. Herrick was governor of Ohio, and Warren G. Harding was lieutenant governor.

That was the hey-day of Herrick's popularity. Only a few months before he was elected governor by over 100,000 as a result of a spirited campaign for "Herrick, Harding, Hanna and Harmony."

Herrick had been governor but a few weeks when Senator Hanna was reelected. One month later Senator Hanna died, and immediately the same legislature which re-elected him was confronted with the duty of selecting a successor to fill out more than a year of his unexpired term and also for the full term ensuing.

Those of you who remember the circumstances will recall that most of the Republican members of the legislature favored the election of Herrick. His popularity had not yet begun to wane. Senator Foraker also urged Herrick to become his colleague.

All this was before Dick's name was seriously considered in connection with the senatorship.

You will remember, perhaps, how Herrick refused the offer of Foraker and Republican members of the legislature. He declared a "sacred trust" had been reposed in him which he would serve to fulfill, and that he would serve out his time in the governor's office before seeking other political honors.

It was well understood then that the reason why Herrick would not accept the senatorship, which he could have had without opposition, was because Harding would have succeeded to the vacancy in the governor's office. Herrick and the Hanna cohorts feared that such a change would restore the Foraker faction to control. The "sacred trust" Herrick had in mind was to keep the Foraker faction out of power.

Had Herrick taken the senatorship he might have escaped the withering unpopularity which developed during his disastrous administration, followed by his overwhelming defeat at the polls in 1905, and he would now be a candidate for re-election to the senate.

After Herrick turned down all overtures, Dick became the only aspirant for the vacant senatorship and he was elected without opposition for the unexpired term and ensuing full term, as Herrick might have been. Now Dick is a candidate for re-election, and Herrick is believed to be a "dark horse" candidate who is waiting to see whether a Republican legislature is elected with a view to matching his purse against the 150,000 votes Dick received at the polls.

Herrick helped to eliminate Foraker. He probably feels that it is still his "sacred trust" to keep the Foraker faction out of power. But the funny part of it all is that he would now violate that "sacred trust" which he felt incumbent upon him six years ago to hold the Hanna forces intact, by also trying with the power of his purse to eliminate Dick who was Hanna's chief lieutenant in all of Hanna's political battles in Ohio.

No wonder the Republican voters of Ohio are so thoroughly disgusted that they are resolved to fortify Governor Harmon's re-election this year by the election of a legislature with a Democratic majority in both branches to give him united support and to settle the unseemly g. o. p. wrangle over the senatorship.

For Glidden Tour Which Started Today

From Cincinnati And Ends In Chicago

Over 2 Thousand Miles To Be Covered

Cincinnati, O., June 13—The seventh annual reliability touring contest of the American Automobile Association, commonly known as the Glidden tour, will start from this city tomorrow morning. Before it is ended the contestants will have made a journey of nearly 3,000 miles that will cover a large section of the Southwest and Middle West and take them within the borders of thirteen States. There will be fifteen days of traveling, and, with the stop-overs, the end will come on the last day of the month at Chicago.

This was an exceedingly busy day for the several hundred automobilists who are interested directly or indirectly in the far-famed tour. It was the last opportunity to see that the for a mere mess of pottage. The highest of these positions which can be acquired were said by Rev. Black to be clean, moral, Christian characters for which a paltry amount would be comparatively nothing.

The graduating class was made to remember that each were American citizens and were told by Mr. Black that to be an American was greater than to be a king. The reasons for this statement was made plain in a very simple manner. The first reason is that we have liberty under a government. We have our own choice of vocation and we can follow it as we choose and are not hampered by government or caste. In America, we can start at the bottom, as the senior class must now do, and work slowly upward to the height of success and the more work that we encounter in contesting machines were in perfect condition for the long grind and to arrange for the checking of baggage and the hundred and one other preliminaries that must be attended to. The official badges were distributed by the committee and each contesting car was furnished with small pennants denoting their make and tags bearing their numbers.

The tour this year will be a contest of physical endurance as well as one that is bound to test the cars. There will be days when the contestants will have to cover nearly 250 miles over roads they know little about.

Once the Queen City is left behind the tourists will head for Lexington and thence on to Louisville, where the first night will be spent. From the Kentucky metropolis the route takes them through Bowling Green to Nashville. After spending the night in the Tennessee capital, the tourists will take a southerly course through Columbia to Sheffield, Ala., the next night stop. Friday the journey will be continued along the Tennessee-Mississippi line until Memphis is reached.

The route for Saturday will take the travelers from Memphis to Little Rock, a distance of over 200 miles. An easy Sunday run will be made from Little Rock to Hot Springs, where the journey will be resumed Monday morning. Leaving Hot Springs there will be a run to the Texas line and Texarkana, on the boundary line, will shelter the tourists Monday night. Tuesday will be devoted to a run from Texarkana to Dallas, with a noon stop at Paris.

Oklahoma will be the next State to entertain the Gliddeners. After a 200-mile run from Dallas, by way of Terrell the contestants will reach Lawton Wednesday night and will remain there until the following morning. Oklahoma City will be reached Thursday evening. From Oklahoma City the long runs will start, the first day heading for Wichita, which is 216 miles away. Two hundred and thirty-five miles more will land the tourists at Kansas City, where Saturday night and Sunday will be passed.

Then the beginning of the end will find the tourists heading northward again for Omaha. The run from Kansas City to Omaha will constitute the longest day's journey, covering a distance of 243 miles. Leaving Omaha Tuesday morning the motorists will steer eastward across the State of Iowa. A run of 160 miles will bring them to Des Moines, where elaborate entertainment has been prepared for them Tuesday night. The next day will take the contestants to the Mississippi River, with Davenport as the night stop. Crossing the river early the next morning the last day's run will be commenced. One hundred and eighty miles across northern Illinois will bring the tourists to Chicago, the final objective point and the end of what promises to be the most successful as well as the longest reliability contests ever conducted under the auspices of the American Automobile Association.

FOUND NOTE

In Box Of Strawberries Shipped From Tennessee

A few days ago when a North Main street lady emptied a box of strawberries she discovered a piece of paper on which there was some writing. It read as follows:

"My name is Myrtle White, I have light hair, blue eyes and am dark complected. I would like you to write to me and I will answer. Myrtle White, Spring City, Tenn."

ACKERMAN

Has A Word To Say About The Contest

To Occur In This City Next Friday Evening

Word received from Al Ackerman, Saturday, from Erie, Pa., where he has been training for his match with young Gotch, here in this city, Friday, June 17th, states that he will be here, sometime Tuesday morning to engage in suitable training quarters to complete his work.

In reference to the statement made by young Gotch and published in the Cincinnati Enquirer of the 10th inst., about having police protection at the ring side and that he (young Gotch) is a wrestler, and not a prize fighter; Ackerman gets very indignant and says, "I have got it on that fellow any way he wants to step in the prize ring or on the mat, and all that foretelling talk will not get him a cent, but I am glad that the bout next Friday evening will settle it, for all time to come, who is the middle weight champion of America, and all I ask, for my part, is a fair and impartial referee, and for the public to withhold their verdict until next Friday evening when I can demonstrate, as I have in years gone by, that I am the undisputed middle weight champion of America."

Ackerman says that he is in the pink of condition, baring a little stiffness. Ackerman was in Frank Gotch's training camp when the big champion was preparing for his match with Zybiskio, the Polish champion, and the rough work he encountered there with the big fellow so stiffened him it will require hard training to work it out.

Gotch will arrive Wednesday, from French Lick Springs, and complete his training here. Probably another preliminary will be arranged and matched as Curly Mitcheaux, the local wrestler, wants to meet any one of his pounds in the county.

Negotiations are also on for young Yucanaya, the Grecian Wonder, of Zanesville, and Kid Martin of Chillicothe, both light weight wrestlers. Tickets were placed on sale Saturday at Kilkenny Cigar store, and the indications are that every seat will be sold before Friday evening.

TEXAS DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

Dallas, Tex., June 13—In response to a call issued by State Chairman A. B. Storey the members of the State Democratic Committee met here for a conference today in accordance with the provisions of the Terrell election law. The principal business before the conference will be to certify the names of candidates for places on the official primary ballot and to decide upon the meeting place for the State Democratic convention, which will be held on August 9. Galveston is a strong bidder for the honor of being selected as the place for the convention. Although the convention no longer has the power to nominate officers for the state, the coming convention promises to be exceptionally well attended, owing to the fact that the fight will be made on the floor on the prohibition question.

Tales of Cities.

The little town of Odebolt, O., claims the honor of being the popcorn center of the world. The town's yearly shipment of popcorn is 15,000,000 pounds.

More than 200,000 animals were put to death in New York last year by the humane society, primarily because they were abandoned or left to starve by their owners.

SCHOOLS AND SCHOLARS

School books have been laid aside, recitations are over for this year, and for some, forever, and examinations are nearly completed. All anxiously await next Thursday morning when the results of the year's work are given out to the pupils. The graduating class was excused from school Wednesday and Thursday of this week in order to have time to prepare for commencement. Regular examinations started Friday morning and end Tuesday of next week. The senior class of this year is the smallest in numbers that has been graduated from the high school for a number of years. The class was originally large, but a number "barred by the wayside" with the result that they were not able to graduate with their class.

The commencement and incidental final (for this year), number of the High School Forum was put on sale after school Tuesday. It has always been the rule to make this issue the best of the year and the material for the fulfillment of this principle has always been more available because of the opportunities presented to exercise the originality of those writing stories or articles. These opportunities are made so forcible by reason that the commencement number is an issue of "Rubs" on the senior class. This year, however, instead of following the trodden paths of former years in this respect, the originality of the contributors was changed into new and more fertile fields with the result that this number of the Forum has been pronounced "the best ever." Contrary to the usual custom, there was no cover design for this issue other than the plain one which has been used all year. This was necessitated by the fact that finances were low and it was a matter of speculation and doubt as to whether the expense of getting up a special cover design would be justified by a large enough sale. Primarily, the purpose of the Forum is to provide a suitable school publication and yet one that will be self sustaining. As has been mentioned before in this column, the business managers had their hands full with a debt which had accumulated last year. With this to meet, and meet they did) care and judgment had to be exercised this year so that there would not be a repetition next year. The commencement number is the most expensive number of the year because of the printing. Each year, the picture of the senior class is included with a copy and it was intended this year to print a group picture of the debating teams, but because the picture was taken at the "twelfth hour" arrangements could not be made which would permit this. However, there is a superbundance of excellent reading matter in the Forum, the features of which are "The Class Growl," "The Class Will and "The Class Prophecy." The "Rubs" department was also devoted chiefly to "hits" at the seniors. As has been mentioned before, a picture of the senior class printed on a separate sheet of paper is included in "each and every" copy, which may be obtained at R. L. Arnold's book store for a consideration of ten cents.

The senior class play, an adaptation of Longfellow's poem, "The Courtship of Miles Standish" will be presented in the high school auditorium the coming Tuesday evening by the members of the class. There are three principal roles and these will be taken by Miss Anna Swetland and Messrs. Earl Baxter and Dwight Kwant. An effort has been made by Miss Seymour, under whose supervision the play is being produced, to have the "props" be as congruous to the supposed time of the action of the play as possible. To this end, she asked the assistance of the whole class which responded readily and thus this feature will be emphasized. The admission, including reserved seats, will be 35 cents to the general public and 25 cents to school pupils.

With this issue, "Schools and Scholars" passes out of existence for several years and possibly, forever. The editor of this column wishes to thank all who have manifested an interest in it during the four years of its duration and furthermore, those who have been of assistance in getting it up. Perhaps there will be another column of "Schools and Scholars" some day, but—well, who knows?

CLASS DAY AT PRINCETON

Princeton, N. J., June 13—The customary class day exercises of the commencement at Princeton University were held today. The members of the class of 1910 formed a procession and marched to Alexander Hall, where the literary class exercises were held. There they marched in a body to Nassau Hall, where the class ivy was planted with time honored ceremonies, each member of the class inserting a penny for good luck into the loose sod. The annual commencement, the 163rd in the history of the university, will take place tomorrow.

THE BLUE GOOSE

"As the first flock approached my companion called them 'brant,' I knew that this could hardly be correct, because brant are not known to reach the Gulf of Mexico," says Herbert Job in Outing. "They were, however, smaller than the big Canada geese and had shorter necks. Besides, many in the flock, more than half, I should think had the head and neck distinctly white, and it was such as these that we picked up."

"Subsequent investigation proved that they were the blue goose, which is called in the manuals of ornithology an uncommon bird. The strangest thing of all was that, both on this morning and on my entire trip, nearly all the various flocks of geese which came near enough to be examined were largely composed of this same 'uncommon' species. I should say that three quarters of them were probably of this kind."

"This fact is surprising and perhaps throws new light upon our present knowledge of the species. The blue goose is rare on the Atlantic coast, and in the eastern part of the Gulf of Mexico. Collectors in the region to the south of this, as in Texas, seem to know little about it."

NOTRE DAME COMMENCEMENT

Notre Dame, Ind., June 13—For the sixty-sixth time in the history the University of Notre Dame, the famous Roman Catholic institution of learning in this city, is holding its closing exercises today. The graduation class exercises were held this morning and this evening the commencement exercises will be held. Thomas R. Marshall, Governor of Indiana, has consented to deliver the commencement address to the graduating class and Dr. E. A. Pace, professor of philosophy in the Catholic University of America at Washington will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

MARIETTA COLLEGE DIAMOND JUBILEE

Marietta, O., June 13—This is a regular home-coming week for this old city, which has donned festive attire in honor of two important events in its history, the celebration of which has attracted several thousand former residents to the famous old town which marks the site of the first settlement in Ohio and the Northwest Territory. Marietta is 122 years old this month and the present week marks the seventy-fifth anniversary of the establishment of Marietta College as a properly chartered college. The celebration, which began yesterday with preaching in the churches of the city by alumni of the college and the annual baccalaureate service, will continue all through the week and will contain many interesting and enjoyable features. Today is devoted to reunions of the Greek letter societies, which will be continued tomorrow. Many of the distinguished alumni of the college have come back to their Alma Mater for this celebration and will address the students and alumni at the various meetings to be held during the week. Wednesday will be the principal day, when some of the most eminent visitors will deliver addresses. President Alfred T. Perry will give a review of the history of the college and Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus of Chicago will speak on "The Heroism of Scholarship." At the alumni banquet on Thursday night Charles G. Dawes of Chicago will be toastmaster and there will be speeches from many noted guests.

Among the speakers will be Prof. Edwin A. Grosvenor of Amherst college; national president of the Phi Beta Kappa; Rev. William W. Jordan, Clinton, Mass.; Col. Douglas Putnam, of Ashland, Ky.; Prof. Henry E. Bourge of Western Reserve University; Albert Shaw and many others. Governor Harmon and other prominent public officials are also expected to attend the celebration.

It was in 1797 that a meeting of the citizens of Marietta was held, presided over by General Rufus Putnam, of Revolutionary fame, to consider the plan of establishing an institution of learning. The Muskingum Academy, established in a plain and modest log house, was the outcome of that meeting. David Putnam, a graduate of Yale, was the first principal. This school was steadily improved as an institution for higher education until it took on the character of a college and in 1833, at another meeting of Marietta's citizens, it was decided to establish the school upon a permanent basis. Two years later, in the month of June, the institution was chartered under the name of Marietta College. Although the college was never subsidized by the State, but was maintained altogether by voluntary subscriptions, it has maintained a high educational standard and has become famous throughout the country. An effort will be made by the trustees to raise $300,000 to place the institution upon a better financial basis.

Mrs. Dinah E. Sprague of Chicago, who is 101 years of age, gives as her recipe for longevity three square meals a day, which appeals to us as a very strong platform.

AGREEMENT ON BILL IN SIGHT

Conferees Make Tentative Draft of Railroad Act.

COMBINE ALL GOOD POINTS

Member of Committee Says Progressive Senate Amendments Will Be Retained—Compromise Reached on Provision Relating to Stocks and Bonds, Commission Being Provided to Investigate Alleged Cases of Watering.

Washington, June 13—Senate and house conferees on the administration railroad bill have reached a tentative agreement. There will be another meeting of the conference committee, when it is believed that the agreement will be made final. The indications are that the report will be made to the respective houses tomorrow, and the leaders are hopeful of sending the bill to the White House for the president's signature before the end of the week. Summarizing the measure as it will be reported to the house and senate, a member of the conference committee said that in the main it would represent "all that was good in the two bills, together with the so-called progressive amendments adopted by the senate."

At the meeting the compromise on the provision relating to stocks and bonds was adopted. This provides for a commission to make an inquiry into alleged stock watering by all corporations affected by the law, railroad companies, telegraph and telephone companies and express and sleeping-car companies. The provisions of the house bill giving the interstate commerce commission supervision over the issuance of stocks and bonds was thrown overboard because of the certainty that if adopted they would provoke Democratic senators to a long debate.

It is practically settled that the amendment forced into the senate bill by the insurgents, giving the interstate commerce commission power to suspend rates for 10 months, will be adopted. The senate conferees were anxious to limit the period of suspension to six months.

AVIATOR WILLARD INJURED

Wrecks Biplane in Attempting to Avoid Hitting Spectators.

Springfield, Mo., June 13.—Charles F. Willard, the New York aviator, proved himself a hero as well as a wizard of the air. As he finished a flight of more than five miles in his Curtiss biplane, in the presence of 35,000, the engine of his machine stopped 150 feet above ground and, to prevent landing on a multitude in the road running by the aviation field, Willard turned his biplane downward toward a field adjoining the road. He failed to reach the objective point and when the biplane struck the ground its entire front was wrecked and Willard sustained a blow on the face which cut the skin inside his mouth, bruising his right leg, and his right foot was cut by a piece of broken skid piercing through his shoe.

To Overcome Embarrassment.

If you are so shy that it is painful, instead of trying to brzen it out or retiring into your shell, go in for cultivating self forgetfulness.

It is misery to be conscious of embarrassment. No one knows this better than the victim, yet often she sees no way to conquer her feelings.

Sometimes she makes the attempt by fighting her falling. Generally she errs in overdoing and appears pert, rude or aggressive when in reality she is working hard to feel at ease.

Too often she doesn't put up any fight. Because she is shy she shuns every one and every place where she will feel uncomfortable and too soon is hopelessly submerged by her unfortunate self consciousness.

The only certain cure for embarrassment is self forgetfulness. There is an old saying that the one sure way to make friends is to be a friend. This may be paraphrased to read that the one way not to think too much of yourself is to fill up your thoughts with some one else.

The next time you dread going into society try to recall some one of your acquaintances who is shier and more awkward than you are. Determine to make her enjoy herself for one time at least. If your efforts are honest you will be surprised to find that you have been so busy in good times giving that you have forgotten to be embarrassed.

The next time you are caught by your falling hunt up another buffer for your embarrassment, and before long not only will your shyness be in leash, but you will find you have become popular.

Inside and Out.

Speaker Cannon at a dinner in Washington said soothingly to a young suffragette:

"After all, you know, there is room for both men and women in this world. Men have their work to do and women have theirs."

"It is the woman's work to provide for the inner man, and it is the man's to provide for the outer woman."

NATIONAL T. P. A. AT CHATTANOOGA

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 13.—Several thousand commercial travelers from all parts of the United States marched in the ground parade with which the annual convention of the Travelers' Protective Association opened here this morning. The streets were handsomely decorated in honor of the guests and enormous crowds lined the principal thoroughfares through which the paraders marched. After the parade the delegates assembled at the auditorium, where the convention was formally called to order for its opening session. The delegates were welcomed by Governor Malcolm R. Patterson, Mayor Thompson of Chattanooga and B. Andrews, representing the local post of the organization. Responses were made by National President P. J. O'Mara and L. C. Garrabrant, of Nashville, president of the Tennessee division. The convention will continue through the week and business sessions will be held daily. The Portland, Ore., delegation is working hard to make friends and win support for their proposition to hold next year's convention in their city.

BIG WEEK FOR AVIATORS

Indianapolis, Ind., June 13—Aviation Week, which began today upon the city's Motor Speedway, has attracted thousands of visitors from all parts of the United States and not a few from foreign countries. The meet will last all through the week and the various events will be watched with the greatest of interest by the thousands intensely interested in the progress and development of aerial navigation. The meet which opened here today is the first aviation exhibition under the Wright license. The Wright brothers, who are protected by the restraining injunction of the courts against any alleged infringement by others upon the principles of their invention, have waived their claims for this week's meet upon the guarantee of the management that their share of the receipts would be at least $50,000. On the other hand the Wrights guaranteed to make flights daily with one or more of their machines.

For weeks the Wright brothers have been busy at their training quarters to train aviators in the use of their machines and it is expected that some records will be broken in the course of the meet, provided the weather conditions are at all favorable. The program includes more than thirty events for special prizes and in some of the events lively competition is expected. Among the machines which will take part in the various contests is a Blériot, which will be piloted by Mr. C. G. Fisher, the president of the Speedway company. The principal events have been reserved for Saturday, when there will be special trials for record high flights and cross-country flights over the state of Indiana. In all events there will be special cash prizes, trophies and medals, with additional bonuses for lowering existing world's records.

Mary had a little lamb—because, as a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat explains, she couldn't afford to order more at the price quoted on the bill of fare.
